

A warm welcome!

At our Buschenschank, the whole family lends a hand.

A glass of wine steeped in tradition

As early as the nineteenth century, in the Pöllau countryside, the farm at Winzendorf 37 was known as Fuchsmühl far and wide.

In 1901, the Almbauer name returned to the estate, and waterwheel and millstone served the owners' fate.

Much grain was milled and timber sawn with care, while vines were tended on Schönaauer Berg up there.

In 1960, the Rath family moved within these walls, and by 1962, wine was flowing through the halls.

In 1984, Helga and Karl became husband and wife, and once again a new name marked the farmstead's life.

For thirty-five years, they shaped the place their way, until new owners came to take the reins one day.

Now Karl jr. and Elisabeth have made it their design, to focus on pigs, wood chips and, of course, their wine.

Much has changed in the sixty years gone by, since the four-sided farm stood beneath the Styrian sky.

Rath became Spindler, pigs replaced the cows, and even the taproom is far larger now.

Yet one thing has remained, whatever else may be: our guests still love a glass of wine, enjoyed in good company.

Products from our own farm

Made with love, responsibility and tradition

We are particularly proud to serve our guests mainly with delicacies produced on our own farm.

As a traditional Buschenschank, we use only pork in our meat dishes, as the pigs are raised here on the farm. The meat is prepared and processed with the utmost care and many years of experience. This means that all our meat, sausage and smoked specialities come from our own butchery.

The meat from our Vulkanland pigs naturally is certified with the AMA quality seal.

Born and processed on the farm – a sustainable circular system.

Our philosophy: What grows here has value.

Our grapes grow on Schönaauer Berg and in the vineyard right beside the Buschenschank. Short distances, careful work and state-of-the-art cellar technology, combined with expert craftsmanship, form the basis for the sustainable production of our quality and sparkling wines.

Just as with our own production, we also look for honest quality and regional sourcing when choosing our suppliers.

A family-friendly Buschenschank

An experience for young and old

Our playground and two indoor play areas give children plenty of room to have fun while their parents can sit back and relax.

- » Plenty of highchairs are available beside the play areas.
- » A baby-changing and breastfeeding room is available in the accessible restroom.
- » The latest highlight for younger guests is the digital play table in our newly built indoor playroom, located directly beside the playground.
